OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue.
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it, ye sons of the brave.
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 15, 1863.

Dull Times—Their Cause.

We hear complaints on all sides that business this year is stupid, and by no means what was expected. Faces are growing long, and money is becoming scarce. What is to be the end of all this state of things, and how has it happened, are wise enquiries, which must be made and answered, if we desire renewed prosperity. No one will doubt that the chief cause of the trouble is the over anxiety to engage in trade. Every one who has a little money thinks he can make more most easily by some sort of traffic, and he, therefore, puts all that he has, and all that he can borrow by mortgage of his homestead, into a stock of goods, a band of cattle, or a steamboat. Thus he embarks in speculations for which he has no experience or fitness, and is speedily astonished to discover that his profits do not pay his expenses, and he is left before long without the means to meet his liabilities. There is to-day more trading done, or attempted to be done in this city, and more capital embarked in that and kindred pursuits, than should be thus employed if our population was five times what it is at present. There is a store for almost every dwelling, and there is not adjacent country sufficient to need what the trade can supply, and must have opportunity to furnish, if it is expected to be profitable. So it is throughout the State. Farming and mechanical pursuits are neglected by those who might make them sources of wealth and comfort, and the men who become traders and speculators are thus made an additional burden upon the resources of the community, instead of being, as they should be, means of their development and of general prosperity; for it must be remembered that every new trading house, after the wants of the public in that respect are supplied, becomes a new expense to those who purchase. For these reasons, we are always sorry to see a man who might do well in his shop or on his farm, throw away the certainty of success for the uncertainties of trade and speculation. Instead of being a thrifty producer, he becomes an unprofitable consumer, and thus contributes to the constant stream of waste that flows from a country where trade is overdone, and where more in value is imported and sold than is produced by intelligent industry. This is just what is eating out the life blood of Oregon, and giving voice to the cry of "hard times."

STAND FROM UNDER—"THE GYASCUTUS IS LOOSE."—The Democratic State Journal, a newspaper published at the Dalles, on high-toned, conservative, chivalrous, democratic and copperhead principles, was ushered into this breathing world yesterday morning, and safely reached our office soon after the arrival of the boat. Its editors are Messrs. Snyder & Allison, clever fellows enough, but engaged in sadly depraved business. Their salutatory is just what might be expected, considering its source and its enormous length of two columns and a-half, and if they do half they promise, everybody will acknowledge their tremendous power. We wish them all the prosperity they deserve, but if they would follow John Van Buren's example—"just at this moment jump out of the Democratic wagon, and walk a little while"—we think they would, in the future, be more proud of their newspaper service.

MAKING THE ENEMY PAY THE EXPENSES.—Our generals in the West display a particular disregard of the "amenities of civilized warfare." The official report of the operations of the Frontier, recently made public, shows that during his campaign in Western Arkansas Gen. Blunt subsisted almost entirely upon the enemy, paying no attention whatever to their "constitutional rights." At one place, this inconsiderate General not only seized, but kept running for four weeks, a rebel flouring mill, from which he turned out an average of 75 barrels of flour per day, all the grain, of course, belonging to rebels, which, with flour in that vicinity selling at $8 per barrel, amounted to an outrage of the worst possible description. The aggregate value of the contraband stock, horses, mules, wagons, etc., taken by Gen. Blunt from the enemy, and sold for the benefit of the Government, was not less than $60,000, and to this is to be added the stock used by the troops during the campaign.

What do our Copperheads think of this? Does it not vex their righteous souls? If Gen. Blunt had chanced to take a few negroes, also, from their rebel masters, and put them at work for the benefit of the Government, that would have been the climax of outrageous interference with "constitutional rights!" How wickedly this war is conducted!

COMPROMISING LOYALTY.—The compromising loyalty of a certain class of politicians is illustrated in the following manner by Hon. D. S. Dickinson, in his speech before the Republican Association of New York city:

It is a question between the Government and the rebellion. It has been nothing else, it is nothing else, and it never will be anything else; and you may baptize it at the font of infidel politics as often as you choose, and when it comes out the same bastard of rebellion will be seen. But it is feared by the politicians that some incidents may be drawn in that may be uncomfortable. This reminds me of the transmigration philosopher who begged a man to desist from the chastisement of a dog, for, he said, he could recognize in its howl the voice of a deceased friend. There are a great many politicians, I think now, who the moment they hear Slavery crying, believe that they hear the voice of a deceased friend.

The Follies of Crinoline.

Our pen shakes while we write, for it seems to know that it is becoming impertinent, and we beg pardon of our female friends—we hope the OREGONIAN has a great many—if we presume to suggest that obedience to fashion in the use of crinoline is slightly foolish and considerably dangerous. Perhaps they will think it is none of our business, and we do not insist that it is, but for their own sakes we ask them to read the following from the London Star, written just after the sudden death of an estimable young lady, caused by her dress taking fire, her hoops making it impossible to extinguish the flames. While the writer does not quarrel with the taste which approves such a ridiculous and wasteful fashion, he utters a warning that all prudent hoopers will do well to heed. After referring to other unseemly and foolish costumes, which have passed away, he says:

All these things we have borne with, if not without repining, at any rate without serious opposition, simply because we admitted the right of those who wore them to please themselves in the matter of costume, and in the same spirit we have endeavored to bear with crinoline.

We may have grieved to see that those whom nature has made graceful should do their best to render themselves unattractive by insanely adopting the dome of St. Paul's as the 'beau ideal of perfect outline in the human form, and walking about with their bodies encased from their waist downwards, in a swaying structure, the movements of which suggested the idea that there must be a ball and socket joint somewhere about the middle of their spine; but we have not sought to impede their entire freedom in choice of costume. We have been physically annoyed by the friction of steel hoops against our ankles in public thoroughfares—by the plastering of mud upon our clothes, and even upon our faces, by the same obnoxious apparatus brought into omnibuses on rainy days—by the inconvenient as well as humiliating extinction of our nether personality in places of public assemblage where the male bust is alone visible, all else being smothered in a cloud of feminine drapery. Yet though we have groaned we have not suffered ourselves to be prompted to any overt act of antagonism.

Even though it is patent to all observers that this new garment is tainted with gross indelicacy, and incessantly places its wearers—independently of their own will, and, indeed, without their own consciousness—in positions utterly repugnant to modesty, we have deemed that our duty was discharged by signalizing the fact, leaving those who had a right to regulate their conduct according to their own sense of propriety, to act as they pleased. They might vex our eyes, chafe our limbs, spoil our clothes, and shock our feelings by unseemly exhibition; we could only complain, for in all these matters they are entitled to make themselves as objectionable as they please. But it is not one of their prerogatives to place their own lives in perpetual peril. The voluntary tempting of death is a heinous crime, which we are bound to prevent by strong measures, if entreaties fail.

The catalogue of women who have been burned to death, is beginning to assume frightful proportions. Who can wonder at this, if he has watched a devotee of the fashionable deformity as she walks across a room. The movements of her skirts are independent of her volition; the bell-shaped mass wafts and sways about with perilous freedom, and it is impossible to see the wearer go near a fire-place without a shudder of apprehension. When the dress, swinging against the grate, that which promoted its ignition renders almost impossible the extinction of the place. The hooped cage defies compression, and obstinately retains its shape, maintaining an open space, within which the flame may play freely around the victim's limbs, charring and calcining them, while she shrieks in agony for the aid which none can give.

REMEDY FOR DIPTHERIA.—A Pennsylvania correspondent writes to the New York Tribune that the diptheria is very prevalent in some parts of Pennsylvania, and says a great favor would be conferred upon the people by re-publishing the remedy given by that paper about a year ago. It is as follows:

Make two small bags that will reach from ear to ear, and fill them with ashes and salt; dip them in hot water, and wring them out so they will not drip, and apply them to the throat; cover up the whole with a flannel cloth, and change them as often as they become cool, until the throat becomes irritated, near blistering. For children it is necessary to put flannel cloths between the ashes and the throat to prevent blistering. When the ashes have been on a sufficient time, take a wet flannel cloth and rub it with castile soap until it is covered with a thick lather, dip it in hot water, and apply it to the throat, and change as they cool; at the same time use a gargle made of one teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, one of salt, one of molasses, in a teaspoonful of hot water, and, when cool, add one-fourth as much cider vinegar, and gargle every fifteen minutes until the patient requires sleep. A gargle made of castile soap is good to be used part of the time.

A correspondent in Maine, in sending the above remedy to the Tribune, says there had been a number of deaths from diptheria, until this remedy was used, since which all had recovered.

TRUE WORDS.—Dr. Begg, a noted leader of the Free Church of Scotland, has carried a motion in the Presbytery forbidding clergymen to read their sermons, the Rev. Father declaring that "a good sermon delivered off-hand is more effective than a written one." There is much less labor required for written than extemporaneous preaching, where the clergyman is a studious, industrious man; but the object of all sermonizing is to impress minds with the truth. If forgetful of that object, we go to hear pleasant speaking and fine rhetoric—to admire the man and his manners; and if he speaks for himself and not for God, desires to please and not impress, to win a reputation and not save souls, then there ceases to be anything more holy or useful in church worship then there is in a debating club. We have a great deal of noisy declamation and clap trap in the pulpit, that would better become the stump, and which christian people, who are not full of froth and foam, that in the end amounts to nothing, might well dispense with, if they could thereby obtain solid sermons from manuscript.

HE HAD HIM THAT TIME.—A candidate for office, wishing to describe his opponent as a "soulless man," said:—"Some persons hold the opinion that just at the precise moment after one human being dies, another is born, and the soul enters and animates the new born babe. Now, I have made particular inquiries concerning my opponent, and I find that for some hours before he drew breath, nobody but a donkey died. Fellow-citizens, I will now leave you to draw the inference."

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to April 8th!

CAIRO, April 7.—Several thousand men have been added to the strength of General Grant's army, within the last month, by the return of those who had overrun their furloughs. They are sent forward on their arrival at the rate of 200 per day.

Information from the upper Tennessee has been received. The gunboats shelled the town of Florence, Alabama, on the 2d inst., and drove away a company of rebel cavalry stationed there.

In accordance with instructions an order for 1,000 negroes was sent to Island No. 10 last night.

Guerrillas having fired on our transports while passing up the Cumberland river, four days ago, a party landed, and after the inhabitants had left, as per notice, every house was burned. (What town?)

KANSAS CITY, April 7.—Messengers from Maj. Ransom's battery of the Sixth Kansas regiment, reports several skirmishes with guerrillas, in which 25 were killed and wounded. The notorious Todd was captured, also a number of horses, mules and equipments. Twenty five houses of secessionists were burned, and about 100 head of cattle taken.

MURFREESBORO, April 6.—Gen. Stanley, with 2,000 cavalry and one brigade of infantry, left here on Thursday morning to capture Morgan's and Wheeler's command. They were encamped four miles south east of Liberty. A considerable force of rebels posted on the other side of Smith's Fork were driven back and formed on Dry creek, where they were again driven and a line or string was formed on Snow Hill. The battle was commenced by the Third and Fourth Ohio cavalry going around to the rear, while the enemy changed their front. As soon as the cavalry charged the rebels broke and fled. Their loss was 20 killed and 63 taken prisoners. We also captured 650 horses and mules and a quantity of bacon and wheat, and considerable forage was destroyed. The position of the enemy defeated Stanley's plan to surround and capture them.

It was ascertained that a large rebel accumulation of bacon at Smithville was destroyed by fire last week.

Gen. Bragg's army is now living on bacon and cornmeal, four pounds of bacon and meal being allowed for one man per week.

CHICAGO, April 7.—A special Washington dispatch says that the entire body of Federal officers in San Francisco have been finally removed. Ex-Congressman Low has been appointed Collector of that port, and R. B. Swain Superintendent of the Mint. New appraisers have also been appointed. The removals were based on discoveries in each department made by Special Agent Brown.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Some of the Judges of Territories are preparing a test case before the U. S. Court of Claims on questions whether the President has the power to remove such officers at pleasure.

YREKA, April 9th, 1863.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The Post Office Department has just issued orders directing that on and after the first of May, all postage due and unpaid on foreign letters for foreign countries in mails despatched from this country for Great Britain, Russia, France, Hamburg, Belgium and Bremen, shall be paid in specie or its equivalent. The order at present applies only to outgoing letters. The existing regulations remain unchanged. This order is made because the postage collected on foreign letters must be accounted for to foreign ports in specie.

HARTFORD, April 8.—Returns from all but one town in the State foot up, Buckingham, Republican, 3,830, Seymour, Democrat, 3183. The Senate stands 14 Republicans to 7 Democrats; the House stands 139 Republicans to 94 Democrats. In two townships there is a tie. Three Republicans and one Democrat are elected to Congress.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The Eastern Queen, from New Orleans, March 29 and Key West, April 1st, has arrived. Capt. White reports that while at Port St. Philip, south west pass of the Mississippi, he was boarded by a U. S. boarding officer who said he had received a telegram from New Orleans stating that the rebels had begun to evacuate Port Hudson. Col. Dudley's brigade had made an expedition to the south-west side of the Mississippi, half way between Port Hudson and Point Coupe, burning two steamers and destroying 1,600 barrels of molasses and a rebel machine shop, besides several other buildings. The expedition to Point Cutlaula and Pass Manchal, consisting of detachments of 4 regiments, was completely successful. Ponchatula was occupied after some skirmishing with a body of rebel cavalry 3,000 strong. The railroad bridge, 500 feet long, 2 miles beyond, was destroyed after the rebels were driven off. A large amount of tobacco, flour and other stores fell into our hands. Our forces occupied Ponchatula and Pass Manchac, and the rebel cavalry is said to be so hedged in that escape will be difficult. Three schooners were captured. Texas advices through rebel sources say that Magruder had issued an order granting all persons transportation of cotton to the Mexican frontier. He says it is impossible to sustain the army without purchasing with cotton supplies brought from foreign countries.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The World has the following: Official information has lately been received at the War Department, that the movement against Charleston will be initiated by landing a small Federal force near the fort on James' Island. Private letters have been received from Commander John Rogers, second in command, to Commodore Dupont, and also from Gen. Hunter to his relatives, dated April 2d, fully corroborating the rebel account of the landing of our forces on St. John's Island and the withdrawal of the enemy's pickets. The letters speak in the most sanguine manner of the contemplated movement, which, it is anticipated, will result in great success and the ultimate downfall of Charleston. It is thought that the Government will have official dispatches to-day. Hilton Head letters say that the town of Pelatka, Florida, was taken by the negro troops under Gen. Montgomery. They captured 15 rebels and returned to Jacksonville, which place they subsequently evacuated and burned.

Bermuda papers of the 24th announce the arrival of the steamer Columbia at St. George, from Wilmington, N. C., with a cargo of tobacco, cotton and turpentine. The Columbia was chased 9 hours.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—$40,000,000 have been sent since March 23d for the payment of troops in the field.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The President has issued a proclamation extending the restrictions of commercial intercourse in Southern States, excepting Delaware, Maryland and Kentucky, and excepting only 48 counties, designated as Western Virginia, and the ports of New Orleans, Port Royal, Key West and Beaufort.

NASHVILLE, April 7.—200 Federal cavalry went out yesterday on the Lebanon pike to Granville, and dashed into a rebel camp where there was a number of conscripts, killed 7, took 15 prisoners and captured their arms and horses.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Wisconsin dispatches indicate the election of Cathen, Dem., Judge of the Supreme Court.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City

Notice to Copperheads.—We call the attention of the two per cent copperheads in Oregon to the patriotic speech of Daniel S. Dickinson, made in New York city on Washington's birthday which will be found on the fourth page of this morning's issue. Mr Dickinson is a democrat of the Jackson school, and believes in the preservation of the Union at all hazards. His remarks on that occasion have the ring of true Union metal and we think a perusal of them will make the "constitutional" democrats in this region hang their traitorous heads in shame.

The Sable Knights.—The Sable Knights gave an excellent entertainment on Monday night, and the audience seemed highly delighted with the various and interesting tricks in legerdemain and magic, and the wonderful powers shown in ventriloquism. To-night the performance will be repeated. Prof My will hold out at arm's length a fifty six pound weight for two minutes, a feat of strength which is seldom performed. We understand that several of our gymnasts will be in attendance to compete with the Professor in this trial of strength, which will no doubt add much to the evening's amusement. The performance will be worth seeing.

For the Mines.—The boats leaving here are daily crowded with passengers bound for the mines. Over two thirds of those brought up on the last steamer from California have gone going to the John Day and Boise diggings. The miners will soon be at work in earnest in those regions, and we expect shortly to see the gold coming down in large quantities.

Broke a Shaft.—The steamer St Clair freight boat of the People's Transportation Company, broke her shaft yesterday when near Rooster Rock, and the E D Baker was obliged to return to the Cascades with her freight, and in consequence of which she did not reach here at her usual hour last night.

Exciting Boat Race.—The Hunt and Baker tested their relative speed on the trip up yesterday morning. The boats started even, and landed at Vancouver within two minutes of each other, the latter ahead. Leaving Vancouver, the Hunt started first, but the Baker overhauled and passed her eight miles above that place, and kept ahead until she ran on a sand-bank at Cape Horn. She got off, however, without damage. So says our informant.

For Sale or Rent.—The Cascade Hotel at the Lower Cascades, is offered for sale. It is the only hotel in the place.

Union Convention in Washington Territory.—A call for a Union Convention to be held at Vancouver on the second Monday of May for the nomination of a candidate for Delegate to Congress to be elected in July next, has been signed by prominent democrats and republicans all over the Territory.

Copperhead Audacity.—On the 31st ult., says the Independent, the people of Red Bluff were thrown into a state of wild excitement, which at one time threatened to end in the spilling of blood.

One Burnett, alias Osage rode through the town, carrying a secession flag. A Mr Pow all met and fired a pistol shot at him. Burnett drew a revolver and returned the fire. Three shots were fired at each, neither hitting the other. Burnett was stopped, taken from his horse amid cries from the excited crowd of "hang him, hang him," and it was with difficulty that the incensed and outraged people were prevented from laying violent hands upon the rebel. He was put in jail; an order was soon received from General Wright to have him sent by the steamer Victor to Camp Union, at Sacramento, and in about twenty two hours after he rode through the town, he was imprisoned and in irons, in a military camp, 200 miles from the point at which his offence was committed.

The Sacramento Union remarks of this occurrence: "There are several reasons for believing that this transaction was part and parcel of the general plan by which the secessionists aim to inaugurate civil war in this State, which, if commenced must inevitably result in the wholesale butchery of Union men, or wholesale hanging of traitors. The flag was very neatly made, about two feet in length—material, silk. Burnett says it was made by some ladies who reside in the town. When he first rode down the street, a number of secessionists cheered for Jeff Davis as he passed. Burnett further says that upward of twenty secessionists had pledged themselves to stand by him and see him through with his enterprise. He was greatly disappointed that not one of them came to the rescue when the Union men surrounded him and his life was imperiled.

The Mountain Democrat published in Placerville, remarks, that "many men from small beginnings and judicious advertising have acquired great wealth and influence. The Great Clothing House of Houston, Hastings & Co is a case in point. They began business in a small way, systematically paying a certain per centage of their profits for advertising, and now they are the leading men in their line in New York, Sacramento and San Francisco. In fact, their store, corner Sutter and Montgomery streets, San Francisco, is nowhere to be surpassed for chasteness and beauty. They do an immense business.

Speech of Daniel S. Dickinson.

The following speech was delivered in New York, February 22d on the occasion of the celebration of Washington's birthday by the Republican Central Committee

Mr President and fellow citizens The birth days of the great and good have been celebrated throughout all time, wherever civilization has traveled and the memory of the patriot Washington has been held dear by the American people (Applause) He was one of those who founded a great Government of equality and repudiated the idea of heaven-descended rulers and ingrafted the great and sublime idea of equality He and those with whom he lived acknowledged no ruler but the ruler of the skies no sovereign but the sovereign of the universe no protector, except he who noticeth as well the fall of a sparrow as the destruction of an empire It is this that has made the memory of Washington so dear Well might the shepherds of the political Bethlehem if they had known the birthday of Washington have assembled to see the stars in the east He aided in founding this great government of equality and it is this which has made his memory so dear. He discharged his great and benign mission on the earth and like the prophet passed away in a fiery chariot from heaven, and it was a sad day for the American people when earth lost and eternity gained so beneficent a spirit But if the country and work of George Washington were a delusion, if this Government is founded only to blast expectations, only to disappoint people then it had been better that George Washington never had been born, and that this Government had slept forever in the silent abyss of time But this cannot will not shall not be Our country shall pass on to the great and glorious future that awaits it It is the second land of promise—full of all the elements of greatness full of all the elements of wealth, of all the elements of success moral and material, that can bless a people Look at her mighty expanse see her great inland seas, her mighty rivers, moving to their destinations like a human soul to the bosom of its God See the productions of its industry its internal improvements its bright and beautiful hills, its snowy slopes its silvery streams, its smiling valleys, and then say whether this land is not worth preserving, and the Union is not worth contending for

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
That never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land!"

(Cheers) In the midst of this land a rebellion has arisen This great and genial Government that has come down and blessed our people, like the genial sunshine that sends its rays upon all of God's children—that has come down to us like a refreshing rain of heaven, like the fertilizing dews has put its nose into the water that came to rebeldom to drink This wolf of a Government has attempted to fasten its fangs upon the lamb rebellion (Applause) What shall the Empire State say? What shall it do in this emergency? There is no half way house—there is no compromise measure. Here are two great antagonisms—the Government and the rebellion—the Government of Washington and the influences of hell Where shall she cast her potential voice? We say the Empire State should say war—uncompromising war (Great applause) War until the rebellion is put down (Applause) It is a question between Government and rebellion Nothing else It is nothing else to-day and never will be. You may baptise it at the font of infidel politics as long as you may, and when you are through it will be the same rebellion as when you commenced (Applause) The originator of the doctrine of the transmigration of souls besought some who were cruelly treating a dog that they should desist, for he recognized in its cries and howls the voice of a deceased friend There are a great many politicians, I think now who, when they hear slavery crying believe that they hear the voice of some deceased friend (Laughter) Now, I have been one of these conservative men I was old fashioned in my definition of conservatism. I was for letting the institution of slavery alone to work out its own problem, under the guidance of a beneficent Providence—not interfering with it in any shape or manner, but leaving it in the localities where it existed, to be dealt with in their own time and way. When they said "Constitution," I said "Constitution" When they appealed to that as their shield I invoked its protection for them When they said battle, I said battle (Applause) And when they inquired who could make war upon the beast, I said the American people. I have had no anxieties upon this subject except to afford them the shield of the Constitution, so long as they invoked it. But when they threw it away when they resorted to arms, I said then, put them down by the whole power of the American people (Applause) And I say so now (Applause) I was an old-fashioned democrat as you may remember. I am a democrat now, of the strictest sect But a great many who were abolitionists when I was a democrat—or tried to be if it would pay well—now call me to account, and say I am radical. Very radical, indeed, and they are conservative. I think they are very conservative in one sense, and only one, and that is not in the ethnological or technical sense of conservatism, but the popular American sense, and that is, opposed to the Government and all its institutions and interests. (Applause) They say I am radical I admit I am radical, and, if they intend by this that I am for making this cure complete, and thorough and effectual, then I am radical After being fairly in I have an idea to see this war fairly out (Laughter.) The question of emancipation has become one of the questions of the day It cannot be blinked any longer, and I have no disposition to get around it. I will meet it as I always have met questions Many of you think I took a wrong side, but I always took one side I never took both sides of any question (Laughter and cheers.) I took the side to let this question entirely alone, so long as they appealed to the Constitution, when they threw that away, and repudiated it, I said, as I say now—and I want the reporters to be sure and get me down now—I speak for the benefit of political sneaks, gentlemen—I say that the only safeguard of slavery was the recognition of the Constitution, that the opinion of the world was against it, all the instincts of humanity and religion are against it, the advance of civilization is against it; the interests, moral and material and commercial of the country are all against it, and while I would prosecute the war solely and entirely for the purpose of putting down this rebellion, if slavery happens to go along with it, I will hold up both my hands and cry amen to putting them both down (Great applause.) I never favored it as an institution. I only favored letting it alone when they invoked the Constitution They sent their pitcher to the well once too much Icarus, in the fable, so near heaven that the sun's heat melted away his waxen wings, and he came down to the earth; although his father called to him not to soar so high, he was determined, in his ambition and security, to soar still upward, and thus he was destroyed. Slavery had traded so long in the politics of the country, had made and controlled conventions, had made mean men mighty and mighty men mean, that it continued to soar higher and higher, and higher, and at last it got up into the heated regions, and its wings melted away, and it went down into the heated regions below, and the institution was destroyed forever. The friends of slavery have done for it what its enemies never could have done, and the Abolitionists ought to hold a day of thanksgiving and celebration and prayer to the friends of slavery for destroying it from the face of the civilized earth (Applause) What we want in this great and mighty Empire State is, a reformation in our political system I suppose I am regarded as a heretic, nowadays, from the Democratic train. I propose—if the doctrines I have advocated for the last two years are heretical—I propose to be regarded so hereafter Like the juryman who insisted upon his position, I propose to change my position under no circumstances in this war. I am not a conservative, I am not a radical, I was never of the trading and expediency class of democrats I belonged to the Jacksonian democracy, whose motto was, first and foremost that the Union must and shall be preserved. I say to our democratic friends that I do not acknowledge them as the democracy—they are a spurious imitation, not the genuine Jacob Townsend, (Laughter.) They say that they obtained a great conservative victory in the last fall's election We have all heard of the lucky individual who drew an elephant in the lottery, (laughter) who could not sell him, and could not give him away, and could not keep him, and did not know exactly what to do with him when he got him. Now, I fear that our friends who succeeded in the last fall's election have drawn an elephant, and they seem to be a good deal troubled with him just now, and don't know precisely what to do with him They are evidently divided counsels, Before the election they were opposed to arbitrary arrests—they were opposed to these thousand interferences that they complain of—but since the election they seem to have changed their position They changed their spots, as the mother advised her little son the leopard could.

"Mother," he said, "can the leopard change his spots?"

"To be sure he can, my son," she said " when he gets tired of one spot he can go to another " [Laughter]

Before the election they were for the most liberal propositions of peace. The Southern people were their brethren, they were merely burning a little gunpowder and murdering a few thousands of men and then it would be all right, and they hoped it would be all made up by some political action, and all be smoothed over so that the brethren of a common tie might meet again in a National Convention and nominate some gentleman, fit or unfit for the President, and all go along nicely as before. But when they saw that their brethren at the South viewed their ideas in a very unfavorable light, and said We will have no conciliation, we will accept nothing but separation " then these gentlemen began to reconsider their idea and some of them have thought that upon the whole it is best to prosecute the war That has been my idea from the beginning There has not been a time from the day they fired upon Sumter to this moment but what I have felt the same It is said we should not have negro soldiers It seems to be feared that they will get between the wind and our nobility. I am in favor of it I profess to be a humanitarian and philanthropist and I had much rather the black man would be shot than myself (Applause) No people have ever refused in war the aid of an inferior order of civilization They say it would detract from the character of the white soldiers I am not troubled with any such Chesterfieldian ideas A Turk asked one of the European nobility, when they engaged in the dance why they did not let their servants do it for them I when I see our husbands and brothers in the war inquire why, when we have an element of inferior civilization here it is not allowed to fight for us? We should use every element moral and material, slave and free, black and white on two legs or four to put down this accursed Rebellion (Applause) In the course of this controversy it has been said that New England must be repudiated Ah yes repudiate New England repudiate the storehouse which furnishes you all your moral supplies, repudiate the mother who has given you your life blood and energy and character, and all that you bear out with you to fight the great battles of life I have not learned from our opposing friends —the Democratic party they call themselves but I want to examine their warrants and see if they outrank me I have not understood precisely what they propose to do Their ideas appear to be as clear on the subject as that of Jack Bunsby on navigation "If so be," said that renowned and experienced navigator "the ship is not afloat, probably she is gone down (Laughter) They have no great general leading idea. They speak of their conservative victory last fall It did not come from the country Where was the Republican majority of the country overthrown? Come down into the wards of your city where, I doubt not they are very good people indeed and where liquor shops predominate where dance-houses send up their music where crime festers and where all villainy and immorality concentrate and you will find by whom that majority was overthrown That was the conservative victory of 1862 (Laughter and applause)

Mr Dickinson referred briefly to the attitude of France and England, toward the country and then concluded, as follows

Give us rather Father of Mercies oceans of blood, give us rivers of tears, give us pestilence give us famine, give us a life of suffering give us ignoble death rather than curse our memories with the idea that this State contributed to uphold a terrible rebellion When this Union perishes let it rather perish by a foreign [illegible] not fall a prey to dissensions at home Let it rather [illegible] foreign foe so that when it shall [illegible] like the stricken eagle it has fallen by its [illegible] the action of the Empire State

So the struck eagle stretch'd upon the plain
No more through rolling clouds to soar again
Viewed his own feather on the fatal dart
That winged the shaft that quivered in his heart
Keen were his pangs but keener far to feel
He nursed the pinion that impelled the steel
While the same plumage that had warmed his nest
Drank the last life-drop of his bleeding breast

The Empire State shall stand [illegible] great [illegible] for the Union and shall [illegible] of her sons and daughters and [illegible] in all conditions [illegible] rescue [illegible] despoiler God grant it God grant it (Great applause

AYER'S
CHERRY

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD MASS 20th Dec., 1855

DR. J C AYER I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness Influenza and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints

EBEN KNIGHT, M D

A B MORTLEY, Esq of UTICA N Y writes "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it or take any other remedy "

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza,

SPRINGFIELD MISS., Feb 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M.D.

AMOS LEE Esq MONTEREY IA, writes, 3d Jan., 1856; "I had a tedious Influenza which confined me in doors six weeks, took many medicines without relief finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs less than one half the bottle made me completely well Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies as the poor man's friend "

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb 4, 1856.

SIR—Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.

HENRY L PARKS, [illegible]

A A RAMSEY M D ALBION MONROE Co., IOWA, writes Sept 6, 1855 During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this Some no human aid can reach, but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing until Dr. Strong of this city, where we have come for advice recommended a trial of your medicine We bless his kindness as we do your skill for she has recovered from that day She is not yet as strong as she used to be but is free from her cough and calls herself well.

Yours, with gratitude and regard

ORLANDO SHELBY, OF SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world and its cures all round us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use, and certificates of their cures of the following complaints —

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.
